

INCHALL x Ingenious Summer Camp 2024.

By Thitisak Yomkrathok

The Ingenious Summer Camp is our annual program that has been successfully held since 2021. This initiative provides representatives from various countries with the opportunity to engage in knowledge and cultural exchange, significantly enhancing their understanding through sessions with speakers from different nations and participation in laboratory activities organized by the camp. This experience greatly enriches our engineering knowledge and helps us learn systematic work processes that can be applied both in academic settings and real-world scenarios.

This year's camp also included a project topic provided by Petrokimia, which allowed us to work directly with the factory. Visiting the factory and inquiring about its operations helped us gain a deeper understanding of the industrial processes and technologies involved. Working on a real-world project with input from the industry was a valuable experience that contributed significantly to our learning and development.

In addition to academic and practical knowledge, the camp also offered the chance to make new friends from diverse countries such as Indonesia, Malaysia, and the Philippines. Everyone we met was incredibly kind and friendly. Despite our varying levels of proficiency in English, everyone in the camp, including participants, staff, and speakers, made an effort to understand us. This experience demonstrated that communication is not solely reliant on language.

The Ingenious Summer Camp helped me overcome my fear of speaking English and encouraged me to communicate more confidently. I hope that anyone reading this will also overcome their fear of using their own language skills. If I can do it, so can you. This camp not only provided us with academic knowledge but also inspired personal growth and development in many ways.

Overall, the Ingenious Summer Camp offered a diverse and valuable experience that will benefit us in our future studies and careers. I am grateful to everyone who participated in this program, making it a memorable and meaningful experience.
