ABOUT ME

Hello, my name is Narat Pengoun, and my nickname is Kao. I am 20 years old and currently a second-year student in the School of Engineering, majoring in Ceramic Engineering, at Suranaree University of Technology. The reason I joined this program is that I learned about it through my university. It is the Global Project-Based Learning (gPBL) program, which provides an opportunity for students to participate in an exchange program at Universitas Multi Data Palembang (MDP) in Indonesia. From this point on, I would like to share my entire journey—from how I traveled there, the activities I participated in, the food I tried, and all the memorable experiences I had throughout the program.

Day 1

“My Independent Journey”

I started my journey from my home to Suvarnabhumi Airport. Since I didn't have my own car, I chose the most budget-friendly way to get there.

First, I took Bus No. 547 from Phutthamonthon Sai 4 to The Mall Bang Khae.

After arriving at The Mall Bang Khae, I walked through the connecting walkway to Lak Song MRT Station.

Next, I took the MRT from Lak Song Station to Phaya Thai Station.

Before arriving at Phaya Thai Station, I had to transfer trains at Siam Station.

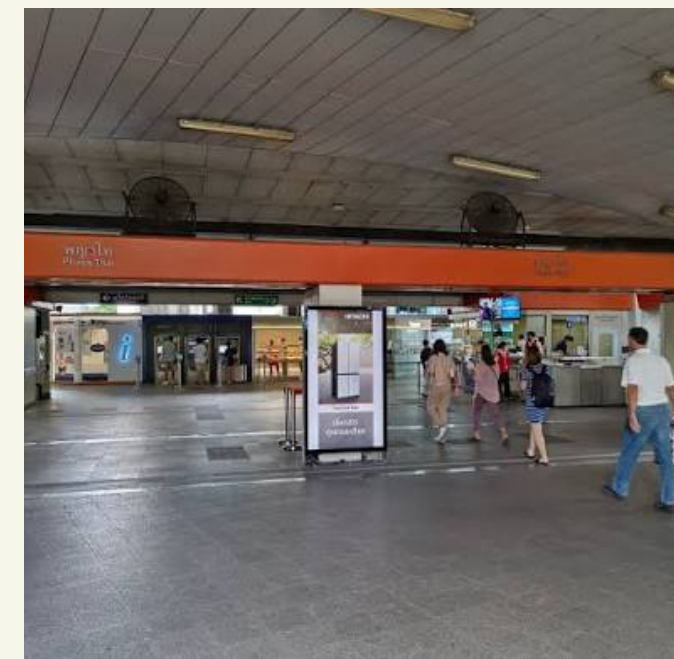

“My Independent Journey”

I took the train from Siam Station to Phaya Thai Station.

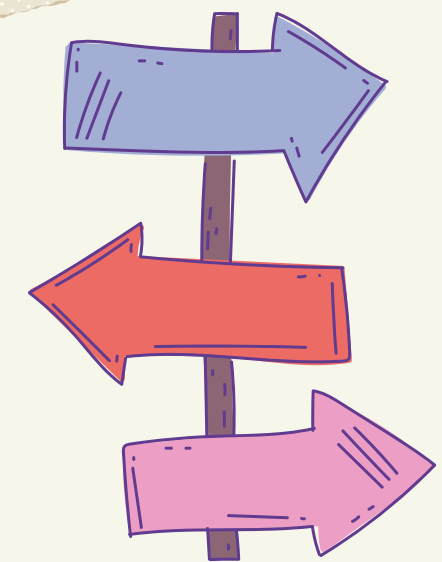

After arriving at Phaya Thai Station, I followed the signs to the Airport Rail Link connecting walkway.

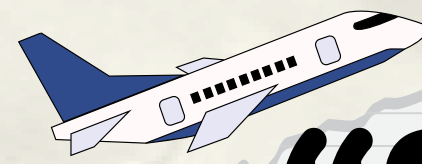

After walking to the Airport Rail Link, I bought a ticket at the ticket counter to Suvarnabhumi Station.

After buying the ticket, I went upstairs to wait for the train and then took the Airport Rail Link to the final stop, Suvarnabhumi Station.

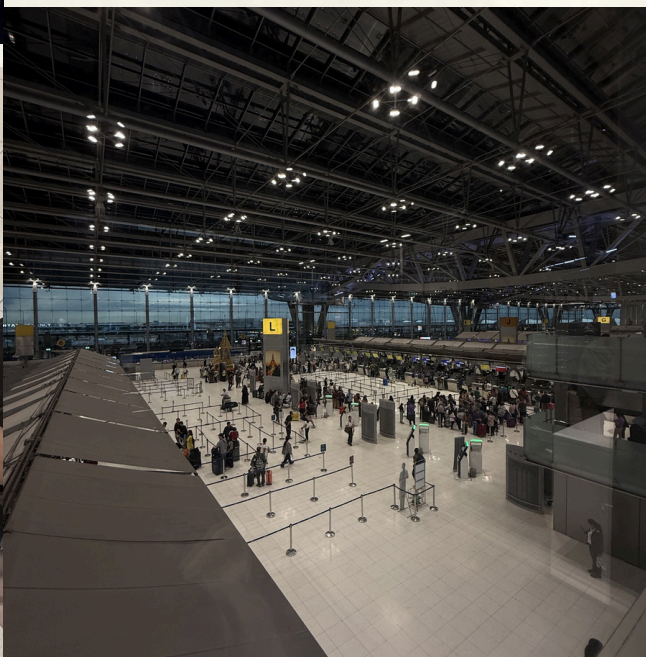

Day 1

“Suvarnabhumi Airport”

We finally arrived at Suvarnabhumi Airport. There, I met my friends who were also joining the exchange program. There were three female friends, so there were four of us traveling together. Before our flight, we had something to eat, exchanged some money, and waited at the departure gate. We booked a budget airline called Scoot through the Agoda app. Scoot is also a subsidiary of Singapore Airlines. Our round-trip tickets cost a little over 9,500 Thai Baht, and the fare included a 10-kilogram carry-on baggage allowance.

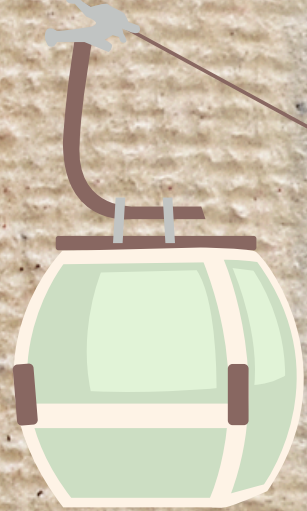

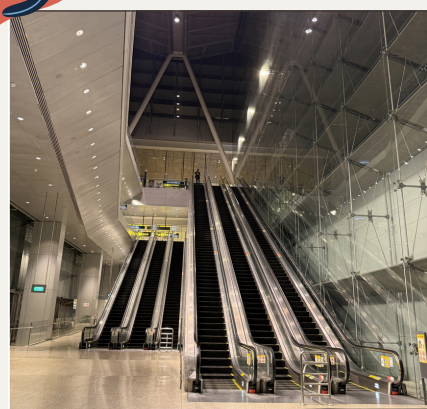

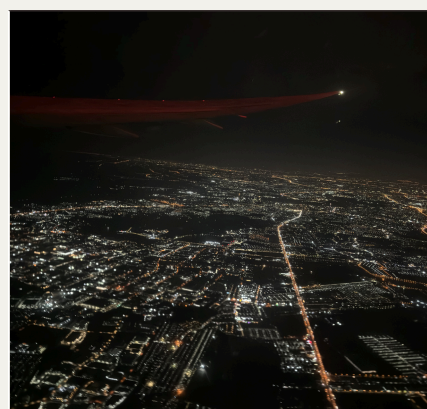

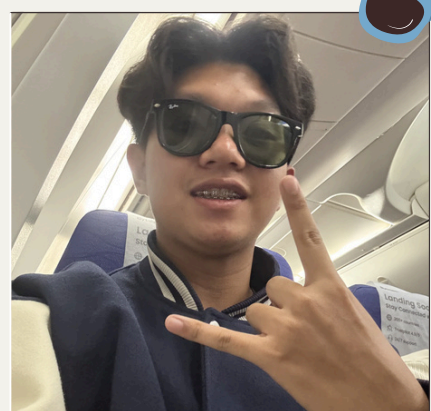

Day 2

"My First Time in Singapore"

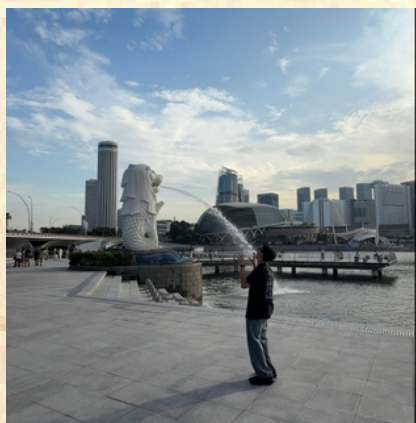

I flew from Suvarnabhumi Airport to Singapore Changi Airport, arriving around noon. After passing through immigration, my friends and I found a place to sit, charge our phones, and have lunch. The next morning, we went into the city to explore Singapore and try some local food. After spending the day sightseeing, we returned to the airport and waited for our connecting flight to Indonesia, which was scheduled to depart at 8:35 p.m. Singapore time.

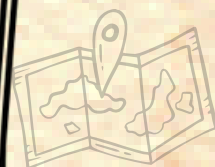

“Exploring and Eating in Singapore”

Day 2

The next morning, we headed into downtown Singapore. We walked to Changi Airport MRT Station and took the MRT. We transferred at Tanah Merah Station and continued our journey to Raffles Place Station.

After arriving at Raffles Place Station, we followed the signs to Exit H. We walked toward the Singapore River, passed The Fullerton Hotel, and crossed the road to Merlion Park, where we enjoyed the beautiful view of Marina Bay Sands in the background. After that, we went to Lau Pa Sat to try some local food. Once we finished eating, we returned to Singapore Changi Airport to wait for our connecting flight to Indonesia.

Day 2

Palembang, Indonesia for the First Time

At 8:35 p.m. Singapore time, we departed from Singapore Changi Airport on a Scoot flight to Sultan Mahmud Badaruddin II International Airport in Palembang, Indonesia.

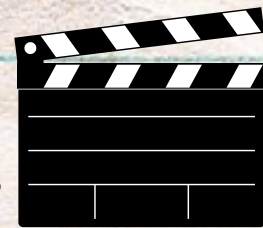

After arriving in Palembang at 8:35 p.m. Indonesia time, we were warmly welcomed at the airport by the organizing committee and students from Universitas Multi Data Palembang (MDP). They picked us up and took us to Comforta Suites Hotel, where we checked in and rested before the activities scheduled for the following morning.

After the presentations, the judges selected the best three teams, and these teams gave their final presentations. The first day of the program concluded at around 3:00 p.m.

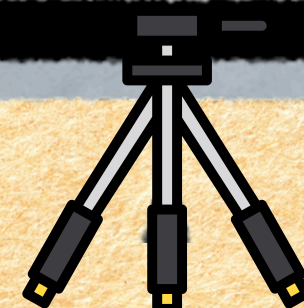

MUSEUM Day 3

Day 1 Activities with International Friends

After the afternoon session ended at 3:00 p.m., my friends and I returned to the hotel to change our clothes. Then, we went to a shopping mall to look around and grab a light snack, since the university had arranged dinner for us on campus at 6:00 p.m.
