SUT and UCSI Explore Collaboration

“Small beginnings, meaningful connections”

The visit aimed to facilitate an introductory discussion between UCSI University and Suranaree University of Technology on potential areas of cooperation, including short-term mobility programmes, student mobility, internships, cooperative education, and research and innovation collaboration.

The meeting was friendly and constructive, with both universities exchanging ideas on areas where they share common interests. The discussion touched on several possible directions, including staff mobility, English language development for staff, student camps, cultural exchange activities, and other future collaborative projects. As a practical first step, both sides discussed starting with small, concrete activities that could be developed further into meaningful cooperation between the two universities.
